

DAVID TAYLOR “Looking For The Light In Watercolour”

14 – 20 October 2013 – Cadaqués

Come and enjoy another painting adventure with Australian painter David Taylor in Cadaqués, Spain.

Contact: www.epc-artcourses.com or angela@epc-artcourses.com

David Taylor is known for working freely on location and his love of spontaneity, shape, light and colour. Whenever the weather makes it possible you can expect to be painting outside, discovering the most amazing painting spots at his side. He'll make you love the seaviews of Cadaqués in the same way he already made us love the coast near Melbourne with his paintings.

He's an outstanding painter, but there's more than that: David Taylor is one of the best watercolour teachers of the world. Not only has he been teaching his great love of watercolour to painters all around the world for many years, he's even been elected as an International Judge for several watercolour panels in different countries. “Painting has been my life and it has rewarded me in so many ways therefore I must pass on some of my experiences and share the rewards with others. So many have been encouraged and moved on in their career as a result.”

Cadaqués has flower-filled quaint corners, purple bouganvillas in narrow cobbled streets, bright light and shadows, turquoise blue waters, fishermen's boats, wild nature around with plenty of walking opportunities. Everything a painter is looking for, in one of the most magical and artistic environments in Spain.

Every detail fully organised so that you can relax, just paint and live the most enjoyable experience in Spain with this unique tutor David Taylor!
